8:30-9:30 am: Registration and review Silent Auction items

9:30-11:00 am: Ozark Quilting

Speaker: Rachel Whitaker, Research Specialist, Shiloh Museum, Springdale

This program will examine quilt-making in the Arkansas Ozarks, including patterns, dyes and first-hand accounts of what quilting meant to the women who made them. The narrative will be accompanied by images of quilts, patterns and examples of quilting bees and circles from small, rural communities of the Arkansas Ozarks.

11:30 – 12:30 pm: Lunch: Catered onsite by Butterfield Trail Village chef Moe

12:30-2:00 Silent Auction bidding. Bidding closes at 2 pm.

1:00-3:00 pm: Northern Lady or Southern Belle?

Speaker: Lisa Erlandson, Quilt Appraiser-Quilt Teacher- Quilt Historian-Quilt Show Judge, AQS, PAAQT., Gainesville, Texas

Lisa will tell us that there was more than just the Mason-Dixon Line that divided the North and South. This program compares and contrasts quilts from the 19th century in design, style and fabric to examine the regional differences of our quilting ancestors. What is the difference in a Northern Quilt and a Southern Quilt?

WE WILL HAVE TWO SINGER FEATHERWEIGHT SEWING MACHINES AVAILABLE FOR THE AUCTION!

PARKING AT Butterfield Trail Village

You may park temporarily at the front of the facility to load and unload. The long-term parking will be on the East side of the complex just past the main entrance in the new parking area. There are paved sidewalks for a short walk to the hall.

Book your hotel early, as this will also be Craft Fair Week for NW Arkansas, Thursday-Sunday. Come early and enjoy the fun!

SPEAKERS

Rachel Whitaker

Research Specialist, Shiloh Museum, Springdale, AR

Rachel grew up in Highfill, Arkansas, and attended school in nearby Gentry until she began homeschool in the seventh grade. She attended college at Northeastern State University in Tahlequah, Oklahoma. Her educational background is in history and libraries. Rachel's work in the history field has included internships at George Washington Carver National Monument in Diamond, Missouri, and the Hunter's Home in Park Hill, Oklahoma. She also spent time among the Kiowa tribe in southwestern Oklahoma, working on a project to collect animal tales. Rachel is currently a history instructor at Connors State College in Muskogee, Oklahoma. She spends her limited spare time outside or reading something not assigned by her professors.

Quilt Appraiser-Quilt Teacher- Quilt Historian-Quilt Show Judge, AQS, PAAQT

I love quilts. I love quilts so much I think I may have a serious problem. I love old quilts. I love new quilts. I love tops and blocks and fabric that could make a quilt. I love traditional quilts and quirky quilts and art quilts. Pieced, appliquéd, wholecloth, hand quilted, machine quilted – you name it, I love it.

I wish I had time to make all the quilts in my head. I don't even have time to finish all the ones I currently have started!

I also wish I could own all the wonderful antique quilts out there. I can't possibly do that – although once upon a time before I understood the depth of the quilt world I did think I might be able to buy all the antique quilts in the world. Ha! That's a whole other story . . .

I live a very fun, crazy life doing too many activities, starting too many projects and getting sidetracked. I like to travel, which adds to the chaos of my world. I have a patient husband who has put up with me for a long time.

I live in the country; therefore, I have animals. Most have just strayed up and become part of our family. It all seems to just work out.

I have kids and grandkids and they (like yours I am sure) are wonderful.

Years ago, I described my world as follows:
My life is a circus and I live in a zoo.

I don't see that much has changed since I made that statement!
